MP3 Version Game play: Music Video: Fantastic Melodies Bright Paw game is a four player co-op arcade beat em up from one of the best independent developers in the world: Tombs. This game is a tribute to classic 90's beat-em ups like Shadow of the Beast, Back to the Future, or Double Dragon. This was the dream game for me growing up with retro gaming. This is a game I wanted to make from the time I was 13, and I'm so glad I finally have!I'm so excited to share this soundtrack with you! So I did what I always do: I wrote the music in real-time while watching the game play-through in the background. So I've written what I feel are the best parts of the soundtrack and tried to keep them up-tempo, upbeat and break the 4-minute mark. I hope this version of the soundtrack gives you a better idea of the game than the cover art does!I wrote it for the game as a soundtrack and I don't have an interest in a music game as a company of its own. This is a game and the soundtrack is the music. So I hope you enjoy the full soundtrack. The game features a comic book style story told with black and white panels. So the music is an iconic soundtrack for the game and I have no reason to write a specific theme for each character. Some don't have much personality at all, some have more. You'll have to decide what kind of soundtrack you like!I hope you enjoy the soundtrack. MP3 Version Soundtrack information: Total Time: 4:07:35 Format: MP3 Bitrate: 320 kbps Will Bedford - Composer Hosts: Daniel "Hapotis" Pétursson Daniel "Hapotis" Petursson is an Icelandic professional Dota 2 player and the head casters for the Valve-sponsored event, The International 2014. He is also the founder and creator of Hapotis, a streaming platform for Dota 2. - I'm Daniel "Hapotis" Petursson, the head caster of The International 2014. - I run a streaming service called Hapotis, with 200 subs, and we compete against HitBox and Patoy on a daily basis for the No.1 spot. - I've been playing Dota 2 since the official beta.

 V10.1 Vs. VSL V10 Review and Tips Hello peeps. I was planning on sending out a simple v10.1 review but so many people asked me for vsl vs v10 tips that I decided to write a full review of the two. So far, I think VSL has a slight edge because the file size is 40+mb smaller for VSL. If you don't already have it, download vsl r77 or higher. If you have vsl v10 already, you will want to get vsl v10.1. A great site that helps you upgrade from vsl to v10.1 is here If you don't have it, download Sharp DVD to Windows or whatever file you prefer for it. You may want to update your platform definitions and remove the temp files, of course. For the next 3 weeks, I will have the vsl demo so you can check it out. It should work on ANY v10 ROM file and you don't have to mess with any hardware. Here is how it works: Here are the steps for v10.1 upgrades/hardware changes: 1. Copy all the vsl files to your sd card and update to r77 or higher. If you go lower, you will probably get an error for a corrupted sd card. 2. Copy the v10 folder from your sd card to the main v10 folder on the root of your sd card. 3. Copy all the hw.hr from the hw folder to the hw folder on your sd card. 4. Add any kernel mods you want. Make sure you update your platform definitions to r73-r74. Be sure this is higher than your current r. So if I use r72 as my current r, then I do hw.r72. Make sure you remove the * at the end of the file (keyword "*"). 5. Reboot into your vsl.dwnmod file. Be sure to add your rom file. We will cover this in the v10 reviews. 6. Make sure your card boots into v10. If it does not, keep booting it until
