Toll receptors are found on the cell surface of an animal cell and function as a first line of defense against invading pathogens. They are found on the surface of antigen-presenting cells and are also expressed by some cells in the brain, which are called microglia cells. Members of the toll receptor family include: the Toll-like receptors (TLRs), TLR3, TLR4, TLR5, TLR7 and TLR9. TLRs are a family of receptors that recognize both pathogen associated molecular patterns

(PAMPs), such as bacterial lipopolysaccharide, and also pathogen derived ligands, collectively referred to as damage-associated molecular patterns (DAMPs). The TLRs are expressed in a wide variety of cell types including antigen presenting cells and cells from other lineages such as epithelial cells and fibroblasts, and are believed to play an important role in the pathogenesis of infectious disease, autoimmunity, and tumor immunity. In humans, TLRs are also found on natural killer (NK) cells, B cells, monocytes, macrophages, and d

To the author of the questions(always thank you!). As for the explanation you can use `__dir__` or `__credits__`, because the first is cleaner, but you should use `__credits__`, because it will be considered internationalization. And I'll close with a word of warning: This is a security and privacy issue, which means that if you use this code, you must be careful about the security of your code and you should be careful where you are running this code. The code will check if the current folder can be rewritten, and if there's a vulnerable file, it will use it, I created my own to avoid certain folders to be asked if they can be used, but this code is not safe for you to use, if you make this code, you must be sure that it is only used in certain places. If you want to use this code, you can use it in a function or as a library, in any case, you must remember that this code will check if the current folder is a safe place to run the code in and you can't be sure that this place is not accessible from anywhere, specially from the internet and from other devices, and you must also think about the security of the place where the code is running. A: You need to concatenate the path to the music files to use `dir_path`, i.e. you need to use: `dir_path + "\Music"` In addition, you also need to concatenate the relative path to the folder where the file is stored (to access the "other" folder) Example: `dir_path = os.path.dirname(os.path.abspath(__file__))` `rel_path = os.path.join(dir_path, "Music")` `print(rel_path)` Or use `os.path.join` in the built-in function `dirname` to get a list of all folders at the given path. You can change it to `os.path.join` to get only one folder: `dir_path = os.path.dirname(os.path.abspath(__file__))` `rel_path = os.path.join(dir_path, "Music")` `print(rel_path)` Result: `C:\Users\rnazio\Desktop\stackoverflow\music` Edit: You can use `glob`
