School district spokeswoman Lee Batista said the cards were sent to the homes of children throughout the school, and asked kids if the sender would be their girlfriend. Batista said no one answered the question. She said the postcards were addressed as "Dear friend of a friend." The cards contained the message, "What do you think? The letter says, 'to my girlfriend.'" Batista said the postcards were found in one student's home and another teacher reported them to school officials. Batista said Howell has never had trouble with the school and had been taught in the district since kindergarten. -- Rick Hurd covers News, Sports, Arts & Entertainment and more for the Southern California News Group.
