TelevisionSet Media, a division of Time Warner Cable Digital, will debut the first national, free, one-week regional test of its new digital channel, "SXSW TV", today, March 15. The hour-long, network-neutral channel will deliver original, in-depth programming during the March 16-22 SXSW Music, Film and Interactive festivals in Austin, TX. "I'm very excited about the launch of this new network," said John Javna, senior vice president of Programming for SportsNet LA, TelevisionSet's original programming partner. "TVSET has put together a terrific team of tenants. The inaugural broadcast from Austin will feature regional coverage of SXSW, with new episodes of TelevisionSet LA's popular series, "It's a Green World," featuring The League of Gentlemen. In addition, there will be a new series, "Superfans," which examines the influence of celebrities' fans on their lives. As the global powerhouse for best-of-the-week creative content, TelevisionSet LA has an incredible lineup of original programs. When you add a first-of-its-kind innovation that enables us to deliver live events to audiences across the country within 24-hours, you end up with a set of programming that is second to none," said Stephen Black, chief creative officer for TelevisionSet LA. Powered by a fully integrated, state-of-the-art platform and a team of dedicated broadcast and technology experts, TelevisionSet LA will deliver content to more than 4.5 million homes within its first year. In addition to SportsNet LA, the channel will also include content from a long-term collaboration with MLB Advanced Media. "We have the best content, in prime time, at the most affordable prices," said John Sykes, president and CEO of SportsNet LA d0c515b9f4
